

Page 58 — Homophones involving Apostrophes

1. Does your mum know you're staying late?
Who's to know whose coat this is?
They're not unveiling their new car yet.
Look, it's licking its paws.
They've rung to say they're on their way.
2. There are lots of possible answers to this question.
Examples:
Don't forget to make your lunch.
I think you're a terrible singer.
My socks aren't as nice as theirs.
That's the man whose wife is a nurse.
The bird protected its chicks from the hawk.

Page 59 — Apostrophes — Tricky Plurals

1. You should have added apostrophes to these sentences:
In three days' time, I will be seeing my cousins again.
This candidate has five years' experience in computer programming.
2. You should have corrected these phrases:
mens' toilets — men's toilets
no mans land — no man's land
sheeps wool — sheep's wool
the womens faces — the women's faces