

8.7.2024

Year R Newsletter

We were so proud of the children's class assembly last Friday, they remembered everything and said their lines so loudly. We really do hope that you enjoyed it and could see how far the children have come since starting school in September.

Reading

This week will be the last week for new reading books. Next week, we will collect in the books on your child's book changing day so please make sure that their folders are in school on the right day. The children have made such good progress in their reading, it is very important that they keep practising over the summer holidays so that they are ready for Y1. Early reader books are widely available from libraries to continue practising. I will also make books available on the Phonics Shed website. If you have lost your login details, please contact the school office and I will get back to you.

Tapestry

Your tapestry accounts will be deactivated this week. You will be given the option to download your child's 'journal'. The link below shows you how to do it. Please note, this cannot be done on the app, only on the website.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?app=desktop&v=l4SMT08B91s>

The journal will also be added to your child's Arbor account.

Next week's newsletter will only be available via the School website

<https://www.st-anselms.kent.sch.uk/yr-12/>

Rainbow Challenge

You will have received an email last week with details to access Seesaw where the final Rainbow Challenge has been set. If you are having trouble logging in, please contact the office.

The weather is set to be changeable again this week. Please ensure that your child brings a jumper/cardigan to school and a jacket/raincoat.

Thank you for your continued support.