

BRITISH VALUES

As part of our ongoing commitment to the British Values Curriculum and our unique Rainbow Curriculum here at St Anselm's, we invite you to read this story with your children. Your involvement is crucial in reinforcing these values and qualities at home, so please take a moment to explore the themes and talk about them together. Let's work hand in hand to inspire thoughtful conversations and help our children be good friends, deep thinkers and morally responsible citizens with an active voice, who are informed to make positive contributions to society.

In the news this week

The Princess of Wales has recently shared pictures, drawn by herself, Prince George, Princess Charlotte, and Prince Louis, of each other. The artworks, shared on social media, are part of the Shaping Us campaign, which highlights how we develop skills to connect with others from a young age. The pictures also aim to raise awareness of an exhibition, launched by The Princess, at the National Portrait Gallery in London, encouraging children to explore their relationships and feelings.

Things to talk about at home ...

- Share your thoughts on the drawings. Have you ever drawn a portrait of someone? Do you think this type of activity could help build connections with others?
- Can you think of any other ways you can connect with others around you?
- Talk to someone at home about some of the people you are connected to.

Which British Value?

INDIVIDUAL LIBERTY

We all have rights and responsibilities.

Our rights can change if we don't act responsibly.

What can we learn from this?

We each have the freedom to choose who we connect with and how we make those connections strong and meaningful. These choices are important as friendships can make us, and others, feel happy and fulfilled.

COLLABORATION AND COMMUNICATION

What can we learn from this?

Building connections with others is essential for personal growth and well-being. Whether through art, writing, music, or group activities, creative expression brings people together, fostering collaboration and communication. Sharing ideas, experiences, and emotions strengthens relationships and creates a supportive environment where everyone feels valued. Teamwork in creative projects encourages learning from one another, inspiring fresh perspectives and deeper understanding.
